RESUMÉ

Musician Ernő Lőw is born in Arad on the 2nd of June 1976, as a second child of a Hungarian family. He attends the elementary school in his small hometown of Turnu.

Afterwards, his path leads him towards “Sabin Drăgoi” Arts High school in Arad. Here he proves to be a remarkable student, taking part during the 2nd year in the National Music Contest organized in Arad at that time. Moreover, starting with the 1st year, he takes part in the International Folklore Festival in Germany (Bad Bruckenau) interpreting traditional folk music of the Ardeal region, as a member of his high school band called “Junii Zărandului”. At the same time, he is a member of his high school’s classical music band. The conductor of both bands is Dan Boar at the time, a great personality in this field and in these musical genres. In 1996 he participates in the International Music Festival for Youth in Denmark (Copenhagen). He interprets in front of the Royal Palace, receiving invitations to perform in several other locations afterwards.

In 1997 he receives invitation to Croatia to perform at the Embassy of Romania there. This is an outstanding event hosted by the biggest five star hotel in Zagreb.

In 1998 he is invited to perform in France (Belfort) at the International Music Festival entitled “Jeunesse Musicale” which is a significant 14 day tour.

This is the year when he produces his 1st album containing songs belonging to several different genres, starting from Hungarian traditional folk music to American country music, from tango to twist, thus aiming to draw the attention of several generations at once.

Year 2000 marks the next big step in his life as he decides to attend “Gheorghe Dima” Music Academy in Cluj-Napoca. This proves to be a great opportunity for the young and ambitious musician to perfect his knowledge of music, as well as to further cultivate his talent and exploit his potential. Within the Theoretical Faculty, he decides to attend two optional courses, namely sound directing and music informatics. In 2006 he graduates from the Academy, thus receiving two diplomas: music teacher and sound director.

For a long period of time he is chief clerk in the choir of the Roman-Catholic church of his hometown, taking an active part in the mass, both by singing as well as by playing the organ. In 2003 he produces his 2nd album which enjoys even bigger appreciation than the previous one, due to the considerable imprint which his Academy studies and especially the canto classes put on his voice.

Year 2004 brings a great loss in his life by his father’s early death. Still, as always, he finds the ideal haven in music and works even harder than before.

Consequently, year 2006 marks the production of his 3rd album, which brings him not only appreciation, but also recognition on a large scale.

In the summer of 2007 he records his 4th album and plans its launch on the market for autumn. The artist has high hopes for this brand new album, which is a thorough selection of the songs that proved to receive the public’s highest appreciation on various events and especially on wedding parties. His albums, but most of all his countless performances bring about ever-increasing success, recognition and appreciation and consequently, his name can be found in numerous newspaper articles and he is also invited to television shows and interviews on different occasions.

In 2006 the artist puts the foundations of his company SC UNIROL MUSIC SRL out of his desire to put his talent, knowledge and experience entirely at people’s service. You are welcome to visit his website where you can find all information you need about the artist, including of course all contact possibilities.
